Welcome to the December/January double issue of the Diseworth Dialogue.

Firstly, I would like to thank everyone who kindly gave a donation this year. Over £620 was collected which is a wonderful amount and will go a long way to helping us with the running costs of the magazine.

For months now, we have struggled to reproduce the lovely photographs that people send in to us but as you may have noticed, they always came out very dark when printed in black and white. Well, the problem has now been solved thanks to our new printer Charles Henry. Charles, a Diseworthian himself, has kindly agreed to take over the printing reins. As well as the photographs, the quality of the paper used in the magazine has also improved greatly. Welcome to the team Charles and thank you for giving the Diseworth Dialogue a well deserved make-over.

This magazine is full of festive treats as well as having the Review of the Year in glorious technicolour. There is the Rainbows Christmas greetings page, an article on the history of the Christmas cracker and in Liz's Health page, it would seem that the act of giving at Christmas time is beneficial to our well being. The report on the recent Children in Need Quiz and the article about Damian Snee's race for Cancer Research just goes to prove that even in the hardest of recessions, people's capacity to give is infinite.

One of my favourite things about Christmas is decorating the tree. But even this simple task can prove tricky in our household!

Firstly, there is the question of the tree itself. Until artificial trees smell like real trees, I am afraid we will always have a real tree- sorry to you eco-warriors who are tutting right now! However, I prefer to have a tree with roots, in the hope that it will grow in the garden after the festivities. My husband prefers to have a cut tree, because he says the potted trees never have enough roots to grow. He is right of course, but each year I try my best to convince him that spending that little extra - OK, that extortionate amount extra - to have a potted tree will be worth it.

Once the tree is home, it's time to decorate it. I love delving into the decorations box - it's like a treasure chest full of memories. The first thing to find are the tree lights. Back in the olden days, tree lights simply had a plug on the end of them. Now, probably due to health and safety regulations, there is a little black box- a transformer. I think it's called, that also needs attaching. For some unknown reason, that little black box always seems to be missing! But the most stressful part of decorating the tree is the power struggle that takes place! My mother, who always comes to stay at Christmas, is a perfectionist. My son prefers the slapdash approach. I am somewhere in the middle and my husband doesn't get involved at all - muttering something about "too many cooks....." However, a compromise is always reached, eventually, and we always have a lovely time decorating the tree.

I hope your Christmas is happy and stress free and I wish you all a peaceful New Year.

Dear all,

Yet another month gone – and Christmas is almost upon us. Quite a scary thought.

Advent is a time of waiting, as you all know, and January the period of new beginnings, so it seems appropriate to talk about the Benefice and its future ministry.

In order to have a new beginning, something else has to come to an end – and that end has been Alison's ministry here in the Kegworth and Hathern Team. After her leaving service, which was very well attended, she wrote:

Thank You & Farewell

Ray & I were very touched by the wonderful send off we were given at the end of October. It was a joy to see people from the villages as well as the churches at that service. We have also been overwhelmed by the number of people who have wished us well for the future.

Thank you for your kind gifts to which so many of you contributed. We received a garden swing and two beautiful enamel pots as well as gardening tokens; also the painting of the 6 churches executed by Jim Yates [from Hathern] and the album of familiar faces.

I would have liked to visit everyone personally to say goodbye, but as always time has beaten me. Five months should be long enough for packing, but this time we have had to severely downsize as well. All that has been very time consuming and exhausting.

And finally thank you to all those who gave money at my farewell service. We collected £297.40p, which I have sent to the International Nepal Fellowship and will go a long way in that poor country.

Ray & I wish you all God's richest blessings as you journey on.

The new beginning is represented by the announcement that the Bishop has appointed the Revd. Dr Tony Edmunds, lately serving in Barrow upon Soar and Walton on the Wolds, as our new Team Vicar (i.e. Alison's replacement).

The advent period of waiting until Tony arrives is going to last well beyond Christmas and in to the New Year – but this doesn't necessarily mean that the work is going to suffer. Before she left, Alison and I set up a Pastoral Visiting Scheme to compliment the informal visiting so many of our members do. Some of you may well have already received a card through your door from one of these visitors. Please do make them welcome and consider them a real representative from your local Church, as a sign that we care and want to serve you.

If you would like a visit don't feel you have to wait to be asked. Just give me a call and I or someone on the team will be in touch.

With Love and Blessings,

Gill.

Where Did the Money Go?

It has been drawn to my attention that the readers of the Diseworth Dialogue might be interested in what happened to the money that the Heritage Centre paid to purchase the old Baptist Chapel.

First I need to relate some history; when the Baptist chapels in Diseworth and Kegworth were established in 18th century, there was a close link between the congregations, the church in Kegworth was effectively a daughter church of the Diseworth congregation and through history the two churches were often served by the same minister. Within the deeds of both churches was a commitment that in the event of the Church closing the other would receive any proceeds of the sale of the chapel.

When Diseworth chapel closed in 2000, for a long time the chapel remained closed and derelict. Eventually in 2007 the Diseworth Heritage Trust purchased the chapel from the East Midlands Baptist Trust (the body that has responsibility for the chapel buildings), they agreed to abide by the commitment and after legal expenses were deducted gave the remaining money to Kegworth Baptist Church.

The Baptist chapel in Kegworth was at this time somewhat dilapidated and required an injection of funds. The congregation had raised funds to replace the roof of the chapel some time before and new heating and electricity supply had been fitted, however the money from Diseworth enabled the programme of restoration to continue.

Windows throughout the chapel were in a very poor state, so the first step was to replace these, finally making the building waterproof again. The hall was the next area to be revamped, with new toilets (including one with disabled access facilities) and new open plan kitchen being fitted. Plastering has been repaired throughout the inside and outside, improved access with ramps and on the level access from the chapel to the hall has been provided and the work has been finished by repainting the Chapel and hall.

This work provides a more welcoming building, which has allowed the congregation to offer the building for community activities. A new youth club has started in the building and the U3A singing group now use the hall to meet in.

I hope you can see that the money from the sale of the chapel in Diseworth has been put to good use, continuing the Baptist tradition in the area and supporting the local community. To maintain the link between our villages, it is intended to serve Diseworth by holding services in the Heritage Centre several times per year.

A Christmas Praise service will be held at the Heritage Centre on Sunday 13th December at 4pm, followed by light refreshments – please join us.

SUPPLEMENTARY FEEDING

Will using the creep feeder to feed his cows and calves

As the cooler weather starts to close in and the grass stops growing, most of the cattle outside need to have supplementary feed and for most of them, it is a case of having a few bales of hay on the ground. It's not quite that simple for the group of cows with calves at foot that live in the field behind the house. The calves were all born in the field during the spring and summer, and while the weather was warm and the days long, there was lots of grass for the cows and eventually the calves when they started to graze.

But now, even though they still live out in the field, they all come up onto a concreted area to feed on hay and corn. The only problem is that even though the calves have all grown a lot, they are still a lot smaller than their mothers. So when Will fills up the troughs on the concrete with hay and corn, the little calves are too small to be able to get any of the food. Even if they were able to reach, they wouldn't get a look in.

Bovines operate on a pecking order basis; whoever is biggest or has the sharpest horns gets the most food. The little calves just wouldn't get any food as all the cows and even their own mothers would just push them out of the way.

To get round this, Will feeds the calves in a creep feeder. This is a smaller feeder that is a kind of large box structure with a trough at the front. The back is open so that the calves can squeeze into the feeder side by side and eat the corn. Will folds down a large flap at the front to reveal the trough for the corn, loads it up then closes it again to prevent the cows from stealing it from the calves. The opening at the back is far too small for any of the cows to enter, but the odd one does try to stick its head into the front trough while Will is filling it up. They usually get a bucket waved at them and a sharp telling off before the flap is closed again.

I usually arrive in the yard in the morning just as Will has fed the cows and calves and I am greeted by the sight of a row of backsides lined up in the creep feeder and the rest of the calves all queuing up waiting their turn. Later in the morning, if the weather is fine, they will all wander off back down the field and lie down in the sunshine and contentedly chew the cud.

Hopefully winter will delay its arrival for a while yet, and I will still be looking at a happy group of cows and calves lying in the field at Christmas.

DISEWORTH HERITAGE CENTRE

The Trust has been given some vouchers to help us raise funds. They give free entry to

Paint Ball competitions for teams of up to eight at any of dozens of sites around the UK. The nearest is on the A453 near Junction 24.

We think these would make wonderful Christmas presents for the young and not so young: you must be over ten, and most players are between 14 and 35.

The only cost would be for paintballs – all other equipment is free.

The value of each voucher is £50, and we propose sealed bids for whatever sum you wish to offer. Please put your bid in a sealed envelope and mark it Deltaforce; drop it in the letterbox by the Heritage Centre's front door, or to me at 9 Clements Gate. Bids must be received by Friday 18 December, and we will contact the winners within 48 hours.

Name and phone number should be with your bid!

Any questions? Give me a ring.

Charity Fundraiser at The Bull and Swan

On Saturday 24th October, The Bull and Swan held a “Night at the Horse Races” accompanied by a quiz and bingo. A lively crowd gathered for an evening of lighthearted betting. Horse races were shown on a screen, and punters cheered on their chosen steeds. As the winning post was reached, the room reverberated with whoops of delight from successful punters.

Bingo and a quiz entertained the crowd between races, and all were invited to partake of a tasty buffet.

A total of £482.25 was raised for the charity Wish House which sends terminally ill children on once in a lifetime trips.

Oliver and his team would like to thank all who helped to raise money for this very worthy cause. It is hoped that this event can be repeated sometime in the New Year.

Diseworth Village Hall

Bonfire Night

A big thank you to everyone who supported the fireworks evening. The weather was fair, the food was lovely and the display was great. What more could you ask for a few quid?

Seriously though, a big thank you to all those who turned out to support the event. Once again we made a small profit of just over £100. Our aim is always to at least break even, so the profit we made will be put towards further improving the village hall.

A big thank you to all the committee members who made the evening possible and a special thanks to all those non-committee members who helped to make the evening a well organised and once again very successful village event.

Jamboree on the Internet

Hello, my name is Jessica I am 10 years old and I am from Long Whatton & Diseworth Scouts. The Scouts and I are doing JOTI this weekend, JOTI means Jamboree on the Internet.

JOTI is fun because you get to speak to Scouts all over the world.

Some of the Scouts we have spoken to this weekend come from Brazil, Mexico, USA, South Africa, Madagascar, England, Russia, New Zealand, Australia, Maldives, Canada, Panama, Mauritania, China, Japan and North Korea. We also spoke to people in the Arctic and Antarctica.

We have had over 40 Scouts from the local District visit Diseworth Heritage Centre this weekend to take part in JOTI. The Scouts were from 3rd Loughborough, 1st Loughborough, Long Whatton & Diseworth, and 4th Shephed Scout Groups as well as the Loughborough Explorers. Each of the age groups came from Beavers, (6-8), Cubs, (8-10), Scouts, (10 – 14), Explorers, (14 – 18), and Leaders.

We all had a go at talking with different people and when we found out where they were from we put a sticker on a world map. We also tried to find out what time it was in their country.

We had a great time and enjoyed being at the Heritage Centre which is a lovely building.

Over 40 members of the Scout Movement made contact with other Scouts around the world over a weekend using the IT Suite at Diseworth Heritage Centre. The event was co-ordinated by Colin Laws (standing right) District Commissioner for Explorer Scouts

Go On, Pull Another One!

Q. What do you call a girl who stands between two goal posts?

A. Annette.

It just wouldn't be Christmas without crackers. Along with the stuffing and cranberry sauce, they are an essential accompaniment to the festive meal. Positioned carefully at each place setting, this brightly covered tube containing a paper crown, a small gift and a joke or motto is a delightful tradition enjoyed by old and young alike.

Q. Why would you invite a mushroom to a Christmas party?

A. He's a fun guy to be with.

The tradition of wearing hats at parties goes back to Roman times and the Saturnalia revels – around the 25th December. The custom of wearing a paper crown may possibly have come from the Epiphany or Twelfth Night celebrations when a boy or girl was designated King or Queen of the proceedings.

Q. On which side do chickens have the most feathers?

A. The outside.

Crackers were invented in 1846 by Thomas Smith. During a visit to Paris he discovered the bon-bon, a sugared almond wrapped in tissue paper and twisted at each side of the sweet. He had the idea of producing sweets in the weeks before Christmas and they sold well. Early in the 1850's he included a small motto with the sweet and because many of the confections were purchased by men to give to their wives and girlfriends, these mottos were brief love poems.

Q. Why should husbands make early morning tea for their wives?

A. Because the Bible says He brews.

It wasn't long before Tom Smith's idea was copied by rivals in business. Not to be outdone he re-invented his product and replaced the sweet with a small gift. By 1860 Thomas had added the 'banger'. This was two strips of paper impregnated with a chemical which, when pulled apart made a loud noise. This novelty was originally called a 'cosaque' but soon became known as a 'cracker'. When Tom Smith died, the business was carried on by his two sons. The product evolved and in the early 1900's a paper hat was added to the contents of the cracker.

Q. Who was England's first chiropodist?

A. William the Corncurer

Most of us pull Christmas crackers with the person sitting next to us, but the traditional way is by crossing your arms and pulling a complete circle of crackers around the dinner table. Each person holds a cracker in their right hand and pulls the neighbour's cracker with the left hand, creating a co-ordinated 'BANG'!

Q. Why was Cinderella no good at football?

A. Because her coach was a pumpkin

The quality of the gift, (and the joke), is reflected in the cost of the crackers. The more modestly priced contents contain items such as key rings; packs of small playing cards; whistles; yo-yo's and dice. Shoe horns; padlocks, pens and tape measures are popular fillers in most ranges as are sets of miniature screwdrivers. Come on, how many of you have still got one of these lurking in the back of the kitchen drawer since last Christmas? These tiny tools are a godsend when my other half is not at home. Stowed away in the cutlery drawer, they are handy for day to day emergency repairs and are as vital to the lady of the house as an easy to use corkscrew.

Q. How does a snowman get around?

A. He rides an icicle

Crackers have come a long way since Tom Smith's inspiration one hundred and fifty three years ago. We have a huge range to choose from on the high street with prices ranging from a couple of pounds, to one penny shy of six hundred pounds for a box of six from a famous London department store. The former can be eco-friendly, made from recycled material or a fill your own variety while the the latter contains an impressive selection of gifts from exquisite jewellery to i-pods. Those of us with slimmer wallets can still enjoy a touch of luxury. What's more, if you have the time to shop around, there are many special offers and multi-buys to be found.

With bargains like these, you really can go ahead and "pull another one."

Q. What's the longest word in the English Language?

A. 'Smiles' because there is a mile between the first and last letter

Damian Snee's Cancer Research Charity Run and his fundraising ideas for Africa. How we can help.

Many of us are moved to raise money for a particular Charity through personal circumstances and association with family or friends suffering with a particular problem.

My son Damian felt a great need to offer support to a work colleague and friend Richard, whose wife Lizzie has advanced Breast Cancer which is not curable but treatable. Throughout diagnosis and treatment Richard and Lizzie have met wonderful people, doctors and nurses who have been deeply caring and supportive.

For Lizzie and all the other cancer sufferers Richard and Damian decided to run the Bristol Half Marathon in September 2009. Their aim was to raise the magnificent sum of £10,000 for Cancer Research UK .

With only four training sessions under his belt, Damian left London in the early hours of the morning of the Marathon, heading for Bristol. Unfortunately all his family were abroad or unable to be there to cheer him on and as Richard was running at a different time, he went alone.

Richard, running the Bristol Half Marathon

However thousands of others run independently, each with their own goal, so there was no shortage of company! “The most memorable bit for me was the finish ” said Damian “with so many people cheering you on, it was a truly unforgettable experience!” Both Richard and Damian achieved the 13.1 mile in just over 2 hours.

Thanks to the generous donations from colleagues, friends and family the target was not only achieved but beaten and to date the sum of £10,088.50 has been raised for the world's leading independent organisation dedicated to cancer research.

Damian grew up in Diseworth and considers himself very fortunate to have enjoyed a happy and privileged life. For this reason and spurred on by his fund-raising success for Cancer Research he has decided to devote 6 months to helping people devastated by Aids in Tanzania, Africa. The idea is to offer help in setting up businesses to sustain them in the future. There is no easy way to do this and before he can start Damian must raise approximately £6,000 to invest in the work programme and to keep a roof over his head while he lives in the community he aims to help.

If anyone reading this would like to contribute towards this endeavour, Damian would be more than grateful and many people would have their lives transformed and improved.

Damian running to raise over £10,000 for Cancer Research UK

To this end we would like to hold a 'Promises Auction' in the village in the New Year so if anybody can help with any ideas or contributions for this please contact Carly or Jim Snee on either 01332 812345 or by email carlysnee@hotmail.com.

Good King Wenceslas

One of our best loved Christmas carols is “Good King Wenceslas looked out, on the feast of Stephen” but did you know that King Wenceslas is also a saint?

Saint Stephen was the first Christian martyr; accused of blasphemy, he was stoned to death cAD 35 (see ACTS 6 – 8) and is commemorated on 26th December. His name (Greek Stephanus) means wreath or crown.

Wenceslas was a Bohemian prince made famous through the 19th century carol by J.M. Neale. He was noted for his piety so it was typical of his character that he should summon his page to bring bread, wine and pine logs to take to the poor man gathering winter fuel.

Born around AD 907, his life was very short; he was murdered by his brother Boleslav in 929; he became recognised as the patron of Bohemia, (now the republic of Czechoslovakia), and is a national hero.

His saint’s day is 28th September. A famous plaza in Prague was named after him and a statue of him astride his horse stands in Wenceslas Square in front of the National Museum.

Thanks for your continued support

GIVING AND APPRECIATING IS GOOD FOR US

In this season of celebration, it is easy for us to get caught up in all the rushing around, buying food, presents and writing those Christmas cards. This can all seem quite stressful at times, but if we can change our perspective a bit, we can actually benefit from all this giving that we are doing. There have been many well documented studies that seem to show that people who give unconditionally appear to be happier, less stressed and healthier than people who look upon life as a chore.

It's easy to scoff and say that we don't have the time to think about others with all that we have to do, especially this time of year. The fact is, that if we do slow down a bit and think of others, the one who benefits the most in the long term is actually ourselves, in addition to the people we are helping. By this I don't mean that we have to neglect our own needs, just change our focus to abundance and appreciate all that we have. Then we enter a state of gratitude which means that we start to enjoy life more.

Just five minutes of gratitude a day can shift the nervous system towards a calmer state of being. A study in 1995 by the Institute of HeartMath in California found that states of appreciation are directly linked to the physiological state in the body known as resonance, where heart rates, breathing, blood pressure as well as brain rhythms and even the electrical potential of the skin are synchronized. Resonance is also present when we are deeply relaxed or sleeping peacefully. When we are in this state of resonance, our bodies function in a more efficient way, and our body systems are more balanced. Heart rhythms are normalized and our nervous system and hormones are calmed. Even our immune systems are boosted when we are in a state of appreciation.

Another study discovered that when people focused on appreciation for just fifteen minutes a day, there was an immediate and significant increase in levels of an immune antibody called secretory IgA. Secretory IgA is one of the body's primary defenses against invading microbes. After a month of a daily fifteen minute practice of appreciation, thirty individuals also had a 100% increase in a beneficial hormone DHEA, and a reduction in the stress hormone cortisol. So by focusing on the good things in our lives we can hopefully have a happier and healthier Christmas.

Children in Need Quiz

For a Monday evening we were delighted to have 7 teams take part in the quiz arranged and run by Jane Hallard who did a sterling job along with partner Bill who kept score. With a wide selection of question topics, we could choose a favourite round to play our jokers doubling points gained in that round or take a gamble as my team did and pick a round without knowing the category, resulting in scoring triple points or failing miserably!!!! The important thing, we took part and had lots of fun.

Liz Jarrom's team won in style and generously donated their £20 prize to the charity. Also, lots of raffle prizes were kindly donated and at the end of the evening we had raised £140 for Children in Need.

Thanks to all who helped, John Hurley and Mike Doyle for allowing us to use the Charnwood Theatre Groups sound system and special thanks to Jane Hallard and Bill.

Village Residents Parking Group

Dear Resident,

The survey of 'nuisance' parking in Diseworth is continuing and we are grateful for the help of those residents who have placed red dots in their cars.

We now have some information to begin to assess the size of resident, on-road, parking in the village but require more to confirm our findings. We are requesting that residents continue to display the red dots until we have a complete picture. It is against this that we are able to identify those vehicles that come into the category of 'nuisance' vehicles.

Information is also growing about the number, location and identification of these vehicles and the amount of time they stay on the roads within the village. This varies from days to weeks.

Anecdotal messages tell us that such parking varies between and over 'holiday' periods. It is unsurprising therefore that the period since our survey began has produced only a first and incomplete impression.

It may be coincidence but it has been reported that there has been a reduction in 'nuisance' parking in certain areas since this survey began. Taxi traffic and cars awaiting airport passengers, however, continues to be a nuisance. We have anxieties that the village will become more populated by these when 'clearways' are created from the A453 towards Wartoft Grange Farm and down Grimes Gate to the boundary of the village.

We have expressed our concerns to the Parish Council and Leicestershire County Highways Department about this.

It has been noted that some 'nuisance' parkers have been reported to the police for parking in contravention of traffic laws. There are few measures that we can use to protect ourselves unless we are able to convince the authorities that we warrant 'residents only' parking areas. At the moment however, please note, if you are inconvenienced, a vehicle can be reported for the following:-

- 1 Parking at night facing against the direction of the traffic flow unless in a recognised parking space.
- 2 Parking on a bend.
- 3 Parking opposite or within 10 metres of a junction, except in an authorised parking space.

Further information can be obtained by reading sections 238-252: Waiting and Parking, in The Highway Code. Please note, be absolutely sure that the vehicle reported is parking illegally. The police have been called on a number of occasions where this has not been the case. They then become disinclined to come into the village when there are calls made on them, at that time, to attend more important crimes.

Just to remind people if you require more stickers these are available from any of the VRPG whose numbers are repeated here:-

Chris Draycott	850856	Steph Keeling	850188

Tony Griffin	tony_griffin@talk21.com	Alan Preston	811123
Bruce Keeling	850188	Jim Snee	812345

If you have 'nuisance' parkers on your street please phone or email any of the above to inform them of the location and type of car and length of stay at the date of reporting.

Thank you for your assistance.

Alan Leech for the VRPG.

LONG WHATTON & DISEWORTH PARISH COUNCIL NEWS

At the meeting on 5th November a big concern for Councillors was the notification of the long-rumoured withdrawal of some local bus services. The Council had been told that Skylink services outside the 7am to 7pm period were not well enough used to justify them continuing and the route would be changed to Kegworth where there are more passengers. This was a 'courtesy' consultation by the airport but the changes were expected to be imminent. Councillors believed that more use was being made of the service than was being claimed. The service is funded by several public bodies including the County and District Councils as well as government and therefore should not be exclusively run to serve only airport interests. They decided that this should not be taken lying down and the authorities involved are to be told that either the existing service should be retained or that adequate alternative bus services must be provided.

It was decided that the Council meetings in 2010 should be, as now, held in alternate months in Diseworth Village Hall. Enquiries are being made about alternative accommodation at Long Whatton Community Centre, provided the cost is comparable, as it is felt to be important that meetings are held in that village, even though the Heritage Centre offers very good accommodation. It is hoped a decision can be taken quickly. The next Annual Parish Meeting will be held on 1st April.

The Council receives a great deal of information every day – often important, relevant and useful. Sometimes urgent. The Clerk suggested a means of forwarding such information to interested villagers. To work, it would have to be straightforward, involving minimal time and cost. It was decided this was potentially very useful and the proposed scheme was adopted. Full details are given on the Council's website: www.longwhattondiseworth.org.uk and on notice boards etc. Villagers wanting to try out the service can easily do so by sending an email to the Council at longwhatdisepc@hotmail.com with "Village Mail" in the subject line. (It's just as easy to opt-out again anytime if you wish!).

Diseworth's Village Residents' Parking Group had reported that steady progress was being made on collecting the necessary data. It was noted that the Council's response to the Airport Draft Noise Action Plan had been submitted as required. Councillors expressed regret that, having taken every opportunity to object firmly and realistically to the runway extension proposals, the decision had been made to permit the plans. Full details of the decision were awaited.

Notification had been received that the 35th anniversary of the Soar Valley Twinning Group would be celebrated next May. The Council would be represented at a forthcoming meeting of the Donington Park Liaison Committee. Most Councillors would attend a further District Council arranged training session on local planning issues in December. Also, observations had been sent to the District Council Scrutiny Working Party about the current arrangements for planning consultations which worked well in most cases.

Current planning consultations included a large illuminated free-standing advertisement for the Holiday Express Inn at the Airport and objections were raised. Also the application to develop 9 affordable houses (following the outcome of the Parish Plan and resulting Housing Needs Survey) off Ashby Road, Long Whatton was considered in detail. Councillors thought the details shown in the plan would lead to an attractive development and gave it their approval. At the time of the meeting the equivalent plan for Diseworth had not been received.
