Welcome to the November issue of the Diseworth Dialogue

I would like to begin by thanking everyone for their enormous generosity. So far, you have donated £997 to the Dialogue. I really can't thank you enough and I feel very privileged to live in such a kind and supportive village. I believe the Harvest Supper also raised a substantial amount for the church.

October was a busy month in the village, with both the Normans exhibition and the Big Switch Off being a huge success. My son thoroughly enjoyed dressing up as a Norman soldier and making a shield and judging by the photographs, other people did too! It was also a busy month for weddings and you'll find some lovely photographs of the happy couples in this issue.

Photography features a lot in this magazine, with Chris Duggan inviting people to his Christmas photoshoot at the village hall on the 28th of November and Andy Hargreaves, the photographic judge at the Flower Show asking photographers to join his workshop. Details of these items can be found within.

With Christmas just around the corner, there are many dates to put in your diary. The Christmas Shopping evening is on the 26th and the Christmas Fayre on the 27th. Hathern is hosting a Christmas Tree Festival in December and the Retired Residents' Christmas Lunch takes place on the 14th of December. But before all that we have the Fireworks display at the village hall on the 5th November and a Quiz Night at the village hall on the 13th.

Don't forget your Christmas Greetings - details are in Dispatches. The money raised goes to Rainbows who are putting on two fun runs in December. (See page 37 for details.) I would also like to mention the Christmas Lunch Project at the Glenmore Centre in Shepshed which you will find on page 39.

With so much to do over the next few weeks, don't forget to spare some time to read this issue. I hope you enjoy it and thank you all again for your wonderful generosity.

See you all at the Fireworks display.

November is such a great month, it starts with remembering and then ends with a beginning! Let me explain. On the first of the month we remember and celebrate All Saints Day, giving thanks to God for those ordinary men and women who through faith did extraordinary things for God. On the second we think of the friends and family whom we have loved and lost as churches across the world, hold their All Souls Day services. On the fifth it's bonfire night and we 'Remember, remember, the fifth of November, gunpowder treason and plot.' Remembrance Day falls on the eleventh of the month and we call to mind all those who have lost their lives in the cause of freedom. In many ceremonies these words from the poet Laurence Binyon will be used:

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

Then, as the month progresses we begin to look forward. The feast of Christ the King falls on the twenty first of November. When we celebrate Christ as King, we are not celebrating an oppressive ruler, but one willing to die for humanity and whose "loving-kindness endures forever." Christ is the king that gives us true freedom, freedom in Him. His kingship is both now and will come to completion in the future. And then on the last Sunday of November the church's year begins anew with Advent Sunday. In Advent Christians look forward to the Christmas season and the coming of the Son of God as a baby born in Bethlehem, but they also look on into the far future when God's reign of love and grace and all his good purposes will come to full fruition.

So, you see, November is a great month. At the beginning we spend much time in looking back in remembrance and at the end we look forward in anticipation. Both looking back and looking forward are important. Remembering reminds us of who we are and how we have got here: anticipating helps us to think about where we shall be, the direction of our lives and its purpose. But however good both remembering and anticipating are it is important not to lose sight of the present. In the end it is living now that counts.

Wedding Congratulations

Photograph by Darrin Parnell

Nigel Clive Allen of Page Lane, Diseworth, married his fiancée of five years Elaine Ann Woodcock, of Castle Donington, at Diseworth Village Church on Saturday, 2nd October 2010 at 11.30am.

It was a small intimate service conducted by Reverend Peter Evans. The Bride and Groom's parents were present. The Bride's father, Mr Henry Townsley of Poulton Le Fylde, Lancashire and the Groom's mother, Mrs Vera Allen of Diseworth, were witnesses at the ceremony.

Darrin Parnell of Photos & Confetti (01509-554297) took photographs. Flowers were from Buddies (01332-850165). The Wedding Breakfast was held at Donington Manor Hotel. The happy couple honeymooned in Palma, Majorca.

The Bride and Groom's families and friends wish them well.

"Love never gives up; and its faith, hope and patience never fail".
1 Corinthians, verse 7. Good News Colour New Testament.

Things that could have spoiled a wedding (and why they didn't)

Like:

Discovering on the night before the wedding that the groom and best-man's kilts are a tad too big.

- * Father of the bride and the boys set to work and created extra holes in the belt of the kilt, trusted to providence and prayed that this would suffice (it did)

Realising on the wedding day that there is not enough fresh lavender for the church, the hotel and the marquee

- * Sandie and Diane raided their gardens for us and the beautiful silk flower arrangements prepared by Sarah Minton and the fresh bouquets and posies from Fleurs en Fleur were superb.

Losing the photographer for almost an hour between the hairdressers and the house.

- * He turned the wrong way, became embroiled in traffic, but phoned for instructions and arrived back in time. Bride insists it had nothing to do with her directions, even though in the past she has distinguished left from right by a scar on her hand!

Bride's older brother & wife finding they have no baby pants for their daughter to wear with dress.

- * Bride's other brother and fiancé contacted and asked to source, buy and bring pants, which they did (apparently at same time as getting secret bouquets requested by bride)

Bride pointing out that her brother, who clearly had been given a mission too many with the pants, had left to collect groom, best man and usher without taking the button holes, which mother of bride had forgotten to give to him. Also the sunshine was now interrupted by sudden showers.

- * Mother of bride caused button holes problem, so mother of bride took them to church, under cover of one of a bunch of white umbrellas loaned by Sally and Barry.

Meanwhile bride is dressed and looks stunning, as does bridesmaid, but then hook and eye snap on bridesmaid's dress. No-one can find sewing kit to fix the dress as mother of bride on way to church.

- * Make up artiste is still at the house as she has lost her spectacles somewhere, so she helped out and pinned bridesmaid securely.

Mother of bride being unable to pin button holes through woollen highland jackets without help of 6 other guests, and then having no time to get home to walk or drive to church with bridesmaid.

- * Friends Sharon and Darryl still at house, as make up artiste (now with glasses) has been repairing Sharon's spray-tan, which was patchy on legs due to socks!!! So friends brought bridesmaid to church in their car.

Really heavy downpour as bride is just about to walk to church

- * Dave came round to take bride and father of bride to church in his vintage car, nicely captured on the video filmed by Sue.

Brilliant sunny skies on first leaving church, turning within minutes to a mini monsoon, causing the outside photography to be abandoned

- * Photos continued back in church where we had enjoyed such a delightful service and then it was sunny again as Richard brought his nice car to drive Debs and John to the reception.

At the hotel gardens, the grass being too wet for some of the games and activities planned during the afternoon.

- * Pete had loaned his large gazebo, so some games were still very much used, though we don't know whose burst of energy broke the 'limbo'. The sun was shining and guests enjoyed the lovely views.

Noticing, after the reception and speeches, that the disco had not yet arrived to set up for the evening events and then finding out that their van had broken down and it was not known what time a replacement would arrive.

- * It didn't matter as Debs and John's friends/family provided us with musical performances during the interlude between afternoon and evening, and they just entertained for longer. So many talented vocalists and instrumentalists in one place! It was wonderful to have such an enjoyable experience, a real treat from Debs and John's friends/family and it paved the way for the live band and disco to complete the occasion for us.

Debra Jepson and John Stewart were married on 21st August and we were very proud of them both. Debs looked absolutely beautiful and we were delighted that her 92year old grandfather managed to attend at least a little of their wedding. John and his brother James looked striking in their Stewart tartans, a lovely tribute to their Scottish heritage and to their parents, who were sadly never destined to see their sons as groom and best-man, but we know they would have been equally proud and delighted. Ushers and bridesmaid supported and helped us all wonderfully and it was a pleasure to share the day with lovely guests.

We are very grateful to all the people who helped us, those who have been mentioned but also to the many others who have not.

It was a truly wonderful day and weekend, which the odd hiccup, torrent of rain and little disco fiasco could never have spoiled.

Karen and Paul Jepson

Obituary

Joyce Leech

The news of the death of Joyce Leech, on October 3rd 2010, though not unexpected, was received with great sadness by her many friends in Diseworth. She had borne her illness over the last three years with great fortitude and bravery, particularly in the final few months.

After she and Alan moved to Diseworth in 1988, both took an active part in village matters. Joyce soon joined the Local History Society, served as its Secretary, and was their representative on the Village Hall Committee. She provided invaluable help at the Flower Show, acting as a judge for children's artwork. She was also an active member of the Millennium Meadow Committee and of Wings.

Joyce was born in Blackpool in 1940, shortly before her father was posted abroad with the RAF during WWII. She and Alan met as teenagers in the sixth form at their local Technical School and later pursued separate but parallel paths to qualify as teachers.

Joyce's first job was as a chemistry laboratory technician with the Gas Board. Her first teaching appointment was at Braunston Park School in the City of Leicester. She and Alan were married in 1965 and in 1966 moved to Africa, where they took up teaching posts in Malawi. It was there, in 1968 that their son, Tim, was born. Joyce taught science to secondary pupils at St Andrews High School before moving to teach first juniors, after a spell of teaching infants.

Back in the UK, they lived in Leeds and in Newcastle upon Tyne before Alan obtained a post in Derby. Joyce returned to teaching, at Brooklands School in Long Eaton, where she later became Head of the Lower Junior Department. During this time she completed her studies to obtain a B.Ed.Hons degree. Joyce next moved to Nottingham Girls' High School, to the post of Deputy Head of the Junior School, where she stayed until her retirement in 2000.

Joyce's philosophy of teaching was simple and she had the breadth of experience and talent to bring out the best in children, give them a sound foundation in basic skills in language and mathematics before they left her to enter the senior school. Also her science background made her one of those rare junior-school teachers who could teach the subject, having been trained and worked in a scientific field.

Joyce had a passion for literature, art and history. All served to make her an excellent class teacher, with the primary aim of nurturing relationships with children to make them confident and happy in the adventure of learning and growing towards adulthood.

In her non-working life Joyce had always travelled widely, especially in the pursuit of the art and architecture that interested and inspired her. She and Alan undertook many tours within Europe and also to India and the USA. She was also knowledgeable about history and archaeology; the several trips to the Orkney Isles, with her family, were a particular joy to her.

She was a Friend of the Tate Gallery and a member of the Art Fund and made many visits to major exhibitions in London, Liverpool, and to the many small local galleries in this area and throughout the north of England. It was a great pleasure to accompany her on these visits. She was also a competent artist and sculptress herself and a discerning collector, of pottery and modern art. She had a love of the theatre and literature and attended many lectures in this field. She read widely and always wrote an analysis of her readings.

To the end, Joyce remained intensely interested in a wide range of activities. She completed part of a Fine Arts degree course at Nottingham University and attended classes at Loughborough on history of art, modern literature and watercolour painting. A firm advocate of organic methods of cultivation, and a very good cook, she put theory into practice on her allotment. Her concern for the environment was immense – she was a member of Friends of the Earth, the RHS and Kegworth Garden Club. Annual walking holidays with a group of lifelong friends were always keenly anticipated.

Joyce will be deeply missed by all those lucky enough to call themselves her friends and leaves a gap in our lives that we cannot imagine being able to fill. We extend our sincerest sympathy to Alan and to Tim and Helen at this difficult time.

Pat Guy

If friends would like to make a donation to Joyce's memory then they can write a cheque made payable to Jan Firth, 12 Lady Gate, Diseworth. They need to write Joyce on the back of the cheque. Monies will go to Haywood House, Cancer Care Trust, MacMillan Nurses in Nottingham and the Millennium Meadow for a tree(s) where some of Joyce's ashes will be placed and for flowers for the Church.

CULTIVATING COMPANIONS

Will power harrowing his grass seedbed

Once the crops are all harvested and the straw bales gathered in, the race begins to pull up the old stubbles ready for fresh crops to go in. It has been a difficult harvest as the weather has been changeable, and as we go into autumn proper, nothing much has changed. Still looking on the bright side, Will has been able to get some ground worked up on the dry days.

I went to pick him up one particular lunchtime, and was greeted with the sight of a huge gathering of gulls and crows covering the ground. As I went into the field a great cloud of gulls took off, soaring into the air, circling overhead and then flapping away high into the sky looking for a new feeding site. As we drove home, we talked about how quickly the birds arrive when a tractor starts to work up the ground. Will said that they sometimes arrive within minutes, and not just seagulls and crows, but often buzzards, groups of pied wagtails and the odd sparrow hawk. All have one goal, to see if the machinery has unearthed a tasty meal of worms or grubs for them. When we went back an hour later, all the birds had gone.

I waited while Will fired up the tractor and started trundling up and down, pulling the stubble up to reveal the fresh brown earth, but the birds didn't return, they had obviously found richer pickings elsewhere. I was just about to go, having given up on getting a decent photograph of the gulls when a movement on the ground caught my eye. Whatever it was disappeared into the hedge bottom and was gone. Later I mentioned it to Will, and he immediately knew what it was that I had seen. "Bet it was a leveret, you know a baby hare." He said while stirring his tea. "I've seen 4 little ones today, all in different places in the field. Tiny little things, you could fit one into this tea mug easily." I was astonished as I had no idea that hares could have tiny babies so late in the year.

A bit of research revealed that hares do in fact breed from March to October and may have 3 litters of up to 4 young at a time. The mother hides them separately in an attempt to maximize the chances of at least some of them surviving. Both adults and young crouch close to the ground if frightened, only fleeing if approached very closely. Hares have had a very good year and there are a lot of them about in the fields between Diseworth and Belton. I hope the little leveret I caught a glimpse of has survived. As for the ground working, well that is on hold at the moment due to the rain, but Will, ever optimistic, is getting the corn drill ready on the promise of better weather at the weekend.

Perhaps it's not too late for an Indian summer!

Diseworth Millennium Meadow

The Millennium Meadow is available for use by all inhabitants of Diseworth and Long Whatton at any time. It is the perfect place for a quiet stroll, especially in an evening or very early in the morning. The grass was cut in early September and has grown back well after all the rain. All the trees are thriving and some are now quite an impressive size. We are still planting a few trees each year, mostly smaller or shrubby species to provide infill and undergrowth. We also have a number of previously planted trees as yet without sponsors, so would welcome any enquiries. Dogs are welcome in the Meadow provided they are under control and not allowed to foul the site. The small gate is always unlocked. Please ensure it is secured when you leave.

Diseworth Open Flower Show

The Last Word

After Nikki's rather embarrassing eulogy last month I feel I really must restore a little balance to the proceedings. I may have been the chief organiser of the Show for many years, but there is no way it (or I!) could ever have continued for as long as it has without a considerable number of willing helpers during that time. I should like to take this opportunity to extend my sincerest thanks to all those who have, in any capacity at all, helped to make each Show a resounding success.

I was especially touched by the surprise presentation, and am glad to be able to report that the orchid is thriving. I shall hope to coax it to flower in time to appear (and win?) at future shows. This may be my last Show 'in charge', but I am sure I shall still be involved in some capacity in the future.

From next year, the Show will be organised by the Village Hall Committee, to whom I am extremely grateful, as I had feared the event might lapse if no one was willing to take on the responsibility. I am sure they will bring new ideas and impetus and there will be some interesting innovations. They will, however, just as I did, need a lot of extra support, especially on the day itself, and I hope that all those who can, will rally round and make sure Diseworth Show continues long into the future. Our show has quite a reputation locally, and those villages that have lost their annual events look on us with something approaching envy. We must make sure it stays that way.

THE NORMANS CAME TO DISEWORTH AT THE HERITAGE CENTRE

Ben the Norman

Thomas the Norman

The Norman exhibition at the Heritage Centre has been well visited and the Norman Quiz proved popular.

The artefacts loaned by the LCC Resources Centre included brooches and girdle pins and a 1400 year old brooch.

The material provided by BBC Hands on History offered young people the opportunity to make a shield, colour pictures of Normans and dress up in costume.

The exhibition will be transferred to All Saints Church in Long Whatton for their Gift Day on Saturday 30th October for one day and return to Diseworth Heritage Centre for a few weeks.

Switching Off In Diseworth

A very successful day was held in the Heritage Centre on 12th October with the Big Switch Off event.

Stands had been set up which offered advice on home insulation and many other energy saving devices. A bulb library was very popular where visitors could test the latest low energy bulbs and see which ones are the brightest and note what they all cost.

Discussing low energy light bulbs

North West Leicestershire waste management team produced a small machine which showed how much electricity is used when a kettle is boiled and the value saved when it is not filled to the limit. There was also advice on composting and waste disposal and for those who had missed the offer of free trees at the annual Flower Show there was an opportunity to order them.

For the young people from Diseworth School there were quizzes and tests; all had a go to hook a duck with a number which related to a question on saving or wasting water.

Perhaps the most popular was the ‘smoothie cycle’ where contestants placed a blender full of chopped fruit and juice on the back of an adapted bicycle and pedalled sufficiently to create the smoothie drink. During the day over 70 drinks were provided.

In addition cotton bags, tea towels, balloons, pencils, rulers etc were given away to all.

Neighbouring village Thringstone brought details of their work in energy saving and caring for their village as well as books of photographs of the history of Thringstone.

John Sketchley from Hermitage Radio set up his broadcasting equipment in the IT Suite upstairs and the afternoon 2 – 5 pm slot was broadcast from the Heritage Centre. During the afternoon many people at the event were interviewed as to their role in the day and advice offered.

Ideas for energy saving at home

Steve Darling from DEFRA (Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs) who was visiting the Heritage Centre spoke very positively about the work that had been undertaken to achieve the results.

Refreshments were provided and the delicious cakes came from the Organic Farm in Long Whatton. The event was part of Leicestershire County Council's Big Switch Off week when all residents are urged to switch off and save electricity particularly during the week of 11th – 17th October.

The RCC (Rural Community Council) Community Development Officer Jo Ling planned and set up this much enjoyed event.

Grumpy of Diseworth

Regular readers will know that I received a letter from Leicester County Council admonishing me for violating the Highways Act 1980 by placing two legs of a tower scaffold on the road. I sent them what I thought was a well reasoned, thoughtful and polite reply, which was also published in the July issue of the Dialogue. I have since been away for a month or so and on return was disappointed that I had received no reply [other than an initial 'holding' letter] to my missive. Why was I not surprised?

Below is my second letter to them, designed to elicit a response from that august and distinguished body.

I'm sure the Dialogue would be interested to learn from readers whether or not they believe a response will be forthcoming and/or what it might say!

Subject: FW: Ref 1993022 [re. Letter REF:10367832780]
Date: Fri, 10 Sep 2010 01:29:26 +0000

Dear Sirs,

Your Ref:- 1993022 [re. letter Ref 10367832780]

You will see from the attached that I last wrote to you in July. I subsequently received your initial, and prompt, response on July 29th, appended below. In your holding reply you advise that my letter had been passed on to the 'Highways Area Office' for 'looking into' and response.

To date, some 6 weeks on, I am still awaiting notification of the investigation to be carried out by the Highway Area Office and receipt of their response to my letter following said 'looking into'. No doubt this embarrasses your office as much as it disappoints me.

You might be interested to learn that in the intervening period I have driven some 3,000 miles within France in the company of my wife and her parents, suffered an engine failure with my car en route [fortunately whilst still within the UK] which resulted in an ignominious return home on a low loader, a frantic re-packing of luggage into the in-laws car, followed by a repeat attempt, this time successful, to catch a later ferry on the same day. Had the AA responded with the same sense of urgency as the Highways Area Office the four of us would now have died of starvation on the hard shoulder of the M1.

I also, whilst in the South of France, sailed a French fishing trawler from Le Barcares to Leucate where I supervised its removal from the water into dry dock. I then pressure washed the hull, removed all crustaceans and repainted it before having it refloated in order to return it to Le Barcares. A messy job, a bit like resurfacing a road but without the endless miles of cones and no-one doing any work.

Whilst there I additionally rebuilt an outboard motor and carried out repairs on a second outboard engine. That's akin to digging a hole in the road but making sure that the repairs required below are done properly so that no one has to come back next week to do it all over again.

During this time in foreign climes I spent a fraught night in a French hospital when my wife went down with suspected meningitis. Fortunately this incident had a happy ending, she had not contracted this nasty ailment but the endless, anxious, hours of waiting around reminded me of sitting in a queue at a red traffic light on a roundabout - it has no purpose, either we need a roundabout or we need traffic lights. To have both is the highway equivalent of tautology, it just ain't not rite. And no, I don't know what the French for meningitis is, any more than I am familiar with the content of the Highways Act 1980.

Having shopped, catered and cooked for my wife and her parents for a fortnight, in addition to my driving and nautical duties, we then motored from the Mediterranean coast to the Atlantic coast to attend a wedding at which No. 1 son was officiating as best man with one of his brothers acting as an usher. This was a happy few days. My sons were busy with their duties and both my wife and I were proud of the job they did. I had nothing more to do than bask in the reflected glory. That, I imagine, is the same sort of satisfaction that the Highways people get from the work they do - a very happy state of affairs.

Since returning to Blighty last week I have removed and stripped the engine from my stricken car [ironically it's a French vehicle] and have pronounced its heart properly dead. Accordingly I have sourced a new engine, via the internet, which will arrive a day from now and I will install it this weekend. That's known as planning ahead, it's the sort of thing that saves you closing off the motorway in order to knock down the bridges which were built without provision for any road widening. [Dr. Beeching should have rung a few alarm bells here].

Whilst much of the above is not strictly relevant to the purpose of my first letter to you, I bring it to your attention only as it seems to me that there has been a reasonable amount of activity and energy expended at this end of the keyboard since July 29th, whilst at your end there would seem to have been a slightly less sprightly approach. Somewhat surprising to me that, as I'm now well into my seventh decade of life which, I suspect, is closer to arthritis, amnesia and lethargy than are those in your team.

'Customer Service' is the signatory to the letter that you sent to me on 19th July, I do hope the title means something and has not been the victim of savage cuts. It is hard to accept that an issue like this, of no great import in the grand scheme of things, cannot be resolved by the entire resource of the might of the Leicestershire County Council just a little more efficiently. If it carries on like this I shall need to re-erect my scaffolding for the next round of renovation whilst still living in ignorance of the correct procedure of gaining the required 'lawful authority'. Still, I content myself with the fact that this will not be required for at least another ten years, by which time I'll be into my eighth decade and probably too old to climb it.

In the meantime I still await your reasoned reply and look forward to hearing from you, hopefully before I'm too much older.

Yours faithfully,

Jim Snee

Hello Diseworth Towns People,

I am researching my ancestors. The family name is Wileman of which were from Earl Shilton.

In my lineage was a distant relative named Richard Wileman 1758-1822 (parents Henry and Elizabeth Wileman of Earl Shilton) a bachelor. In his will he left some of his estate to a John Wileman of Diseworth stating he was a son of a Richard Wileman. I am not sure which Richard this meant or possibly could have been his son, you never know.

If anyone has any knowledge or knows of anyone who might would you kindly get in touch with me. If you also know anything about any other Wileman's I would like to hear from you also.

I truly appreciate your kind help with my request.

News from DISEWIRED
The Community Group for Better Broadband in Diseworth

We thank everybody who attended our Public Meeting on 16th October. We covered much ground and there was much lively discussion.

We were able to share progress on a number of developments, including the initial result of reports we had commissioned from Rutland Telecom and Virgin Media. We continue to explore these options, and others, with a view to selecting a proposed solution and submitting a funding application through the East Midlands Development Agency. The deadline for our application is 26th November.

Whichever solution we choose, it will require some voluntary funding contribution from within the village. We are still working on figures, which will be affected by the option we choose, but our discussions within the village with potential fundraisers have been encouraging. The uncertainty, of course, is whether we will be successful in our funding application to the EMDA. We will keep you informed of progress via our website www.disewired.com. If you haven't already done so, we encourage you to subscribe to our email updates by clicking "Contact" on the homepage and entering your email address. By doing this you will strengthen our case by demonstrating demand for better broadband in Diseworth. You commit to NOTHING by doing this.

We also encourage you to vote for our BT Castle Donington Exchange to be upgraded to high speed broadband. Voting costs you NOTHING. To cast your vote, visit www.racetoinfinity.bt.com or click through from the article on the home page of www.disewired.com. Thank you for your support.

Photography Workshops

Over the past few years, the Photographic Judge at Diseworth Flower Show has been most impressed by the steadily increasing standard of the photographs submitted. We have tried to choose subjects that would inspire you, and judging by the results, we seem to be succeeding.

Our Judge, Andy Hargreaves, is based in Long Whatton, and he would like to get to know our local photographers and encourage more of you to take up the hobby. He has suggested that he would be happy to hold a number of informal workshop sessions, when he would talk about some of the basics of good photography and show people how to get the best out of their equipment. These would take place ideally during the evenings of the winter months.

If you are interested in taking part in such meetings, please get in touch as soon as possible with either me (01332 811119) or directly with Andy (01509 646958).

LONG WHATTON & DISEWORTH PARISH COUNCIL NEWS

The October meeting began with a presentation by two officers of the Police Aviation Team based at the airport. The team's purpose is to engage with the public in a wide area around the airport, asking for their vigilance in noting and reporting suspicious activity, possibly connected with terrorism. Any unusual interest or activity involving, for example, aircraft taking off or landing. Examples given were: unusual or unexpected people, vehicles or equipment in secluded places in possible line of sight of aircraft approaching the airport. Such people using cameras/videos. Unexpected disturbed earth. A great deal of help has already been received from the public. If you are able to report such instances or to discuss this you can make a confidential call to 0116 222222 ext. 5875 or 07796 336919 or email PAT@leicestershire.pnn.police.uk. In an emergency dial 999 or call the anti-terrorist Hotline 0800 789321.

The Chairman had been invited to a presentation of an award at The Falcon for their floral display. This has helped put Long Whatton on the map. He also noted the campaign by Disewired for faster broadband and he thought the Parish Council should offer what assistance it could.

The Council decided to support Loughborough District Scouts with a donation towards their Centenary camp. It was also decided to provide and lay wreaths at the two war memorials on Remembrance Sunday.

Preparations are in hand for the forthcoming meeting with prospective allotment holders to prepare for taking over the allotments area in Diseworth around the new year. Those residents who initially asked for allotments to be provided and who have waited patiently for some two years will have the opportunity to be part of setting up the arrangements. Anyone from Long Whatton or Diseworth interested in the project is welcome to contact the undersigned for more information or to express an interest.

Latest news will also be given on our website:
www.longwhattondiseworth.org.uk.

The results of the survey by County Highways into the provision of 5 salt bins by the Parish Council (first requested last January) are expected shortly. The cost has doubled in the meantime and local consultations must take place. Hopefully there will be more concrete news at the November meeting when the Parish Council will have to decide what to do. The Parish Council is also seeking assistance from Highways in dealing with overgrown hedges in The Green, Long Whatton, which are a danger and inconvenience to pedestrians.

The Future of Transport in Leicestershire consultation by the County Council is being considered and will be responded to by the Council in November. Everyone is invited to respond to this individually - details at www.leics.gov.uk/current_LTP3_consultation or via the Parish Council website www.longwhattondiseworth.org.uk.

HEALTH PAGE

Magnificent Magnesium

The mineral magnesium is required for virtually every biochemical process in the body and deficiencies are quite common. There is evidence to show a direct connection between magnesium and the health of our bones, muscles and heart. Magnesium is required for muscles to contract and relax, for nerve impulses and for energy production.

Clinical research indicates that magnesium plays a key role in maintaining normal heartbeat, bone strength, blood pressure, muscular function and good sleep patterns. Even a slight deficiency can cause irregular heartbeat, anxiety, muscle spasms, insomnia, hyperactivity in children, raised blood pressure, PMS, poor circulation, menstrual problem and kidney stones.

Coffee, tea and alcohol all hinder magnesium absorption and our bodies use up large amounts when we are stressed. An interesting study of 12,000 people over 19 years showed that those people with the highest levels of magnesium in their bodies had a 30% lower risk of heart disease. By studying those who had died, scientists estimated that magnesium deficiency was implicated in 11% of heart disease fatalities. Another study examined the bone strength and mineral levels of 2,000 people and concluded that for every 100mg extra magnesium consumed daily, there was a one per cent increase in bone mineral density.

Foods rich in magnesium include leafy green vegetables, nuts, seeds, fish, whole grains, brown rice, brewer's yeast, dark chocolate and legumes. Dietary intake is thought to be inadequate in the average Western diet and supplements of 200 to 400mgs are thought to be safe. Best forms are magnesium citrate and magnesium taurate. Good multivitamin and mineral supplements should be a good supply of magnesium. People with renal problems or atrio-ventricular blocks must not take magnesium supplements.

Hathern Parish Church 2010 CHRISTMAS TREE FESTIVAL

(Just a reminder)

Time is marching on and we're planning our 7th. 'Christmas Tree Festival.' We're hoping it will be even more spectacular than last year, if that's possible and by the time you read this it will be less than 10 weeks away. So for all the people, organisations and businesses planning to display a tree, here are the arrangements again for this year.

Festival dates and times:

Friday 10th and Saturday 11th December 10am until 8pm.

Sunday 12th December 1pm until 5.30pm.

Following this at 7.30pm will be an informal 'Christmas Songs of Praise' with a glass of wine, or perhaps sherry or punch amongst the trees.

Arrangements for setting up and taking down your trees:

The Church will be set up and ready to accept your trees, with places allotted and power on hand anytime between 10am and 8pm on Wednesday 8th and Thursday 9th December.

They can be taken down and removed anytime on Monday 13th December between 10am and 8pm.

If you can't get during any of the above times, please notify one of the organisers for an alternative date or time to be arranged.

Other details:

As in past years, the theme, the artistic impression, the shape, the size and the way in which your tree is lit is entirely up to you. The more colourful, the more imaginative the better. This is what makes Hathern's Christmas Tree Festival so spectacular - your combined individual talents and imaginative ideas. Each Year they manage to bring people from far and wide to see them and to fill our visitor's book with wonderfully appreciative comments, and due to your efforts, Hathern is becoming a place to visit each year at this time, because The Festival lifts people's spirits and sets them up for the festive season.

Also as in the past, entry for children is free, with entry still after 6 years at £2 for adults, which includes a cup of tea or coffee and biscuit whilst taking in the spectacle.

Once again there will be the ever popular Tombola with a prize every time with an unaltered cost of just £1 a ticket and with most of the prizes worth a good deal more. Also tickets for our Bumper Christmas Raffle will be available throughout.

Again, as in past years we would like you to give a name or title to your tree or advertise your business or organisation using a white card with bold lettering in black placed beneath the tree. It's amazing the number of questions stewards are asked by visitors about trees that are not sufficiently labelled.

Please let us know by mid November of your intention to display a tree, giving its approx. intended height, which can be anything from 3ft. up.
